

Clean & Brite

Maintenance Cleaner & Brightener for Outdoor Wood & Masonry

Lightly pressure wash to rinse off Clean & Brite

We highly recommend cleaning the airborne dirt, spores, and pollen that accumulates on wood siding over time, especially on the sides exposed to oncoming weather. Clean & Brite will greatly reduce darkening and mildew formation, but will not remove your finish. The finish will last longer if the siding is kept clean.

Use Clean & Brite as a yearly wash on log homes

Log homes are more susceptible to dirt accumulation because the upper curve of the log is like a shelf where dust and spores collect. It's important to wash a log home every year to reduce dirt accumulation which can lead to the growth of mold.

Don't use bleach as a cleaner!

Bleach is environmentally toxic, strips natural color from wood and makes wood pulpy over time. Bleach also degrades and chemically compromises wood finishes. Clean & Brite is a phosphoric acid based cleaner, and it gets the job done without the disadvantages of bleach.

Clean and brighten new wood, siding, decks and fences

Just because your deck, siding, fencing or log siding is newly built or installed doesn't mean the wood is clean enough to treat. Construction dust, spores and even car exhaust has affected your wood. Try wiping it with a damp white towel and you'll see how much dirt comes off!

Applying finish on top of dirty wood can result in disaster. If you trap spores, pollen, or dirt under the finish on wood that is being treated, it is possible for mildew to form under the sealer. If that happens, you won't be able to remove the discoloration without completely stripping the finish. Clean & Brite will ensure that wood is free from spores that pressure washing alone could miss.

Clean concrete, stone and masonry surfaces

Similar to outdoor wood surfaces, concrete walkways, patios, stonework, or driveways can become slippery and dingy due to dirt and fungus. Clean & Brite does a great job of cleaning masonry surfaces.
